NEAT CLUB ROOMS ATTACHED
On Commercial Row, Reno, Nevada

The carriage of a buzz-saw doesn't move very fast, but if a man's eyes on it long enough he will presently be sawn asunder. The process of gradual bodily decline and loss of energy which leads finally to consumption is not always a very rapid, but if it isn't stopped it will presently begin to eat its way into the most vital part of the body, the lungs. There would be very little consumption if every family would keep Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house, and use it whenever feeling 'out of sorts'. It keeps the entire body in such a high condition of health and forcefulness that wasting diseases have no chance to get a foot-hold. A teaspoonful or two before meals, in a little water, gives the digestive organism power to assimilate the food-making, nerve-toning, strength-building properties of the food. It enables the liver and excretory system to clear the circulation of bilious poisons and remove all waste matter from the body. It replaces worn out tissue with hard muscular flesh, and changes weakness and debility into active power and nerve force. The originator of this great 'Discovery' R. V. Pierce, M. D., is chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., at the head of a staff of nearly a score of eminent associate physicians and surgeons. He has acquired, in his over thirty years of active practice, a reputation second to no living physician in the treatment of obstinate, chronic diseases. His prescriptions must not be confounded with the numerous 'boom' remedies, 'extracts', 'compounds', and 'sarsaparillas' which a profit seeking druggist is often ready to urge as a substitute. Dr. Pierce's medicine are the product of wide experience and deep study. Any one may consult him by mail free of charge.

Southern Dialect.

The southern dialect continues to reveal its quaintness. Mr. Torrey has recorded this Florida dialogue:

'What time might it be?'
'Six o'clock.'
'Lan sakes! I didn't know it was so late as that.'

'Soon' in this case probably meant early. He has also put on record the answer of the North Carolinian who was asked if he had been at the World's fair:

'No. I 'lowed for to went, but I didn't git to go.'

I have lately heard a bit of genuine negro English which may do to go with these examples. A young woman of my acquaintance was visiting at a house where a colored lad was kept as a sort of boy of all work. After she had been there a day she overheard a conversation between the cook and this boy:

'How do you like the company?' asked the cook.

'I like her right well,' said the boy.

'Do you think she's pretty?'
'Well,' said the lad, 'she ain't 'zackly pretty, but she'll dew well 'nough whar dar ain't no better at!'

Glass Cutting.

The layman who is introduced to the mysteries of cutting glass for the first time is amazed at the amount of work that the workman does entirely by his eye. The first stage of the bowl which is to be cut finds it in a perfectly plain condition, not a scratch upon it and only a half dozen or more marks in red chalk, which mean absolutely nothing to the unpracticed eye. But to the workman they mean the whole pattern. Perhaps the dish is a salad bowl. The marks in chalk will run from the edge, five intervals apart, down to the center of the bowl at the bottom. In one of the divisions of the bowl thus marked there may be a little further marking in the shape perhaps of a diamond. This indicates the pattern into which the bowl is to be cut, and it will be repeated in each of the five divisions. All the intricacies of the design the workman has in his head, and they develop on the glass in a way which seems to the looker on absolutely marvelous.—New York Times.

A Wonderful Creature.

The polyp is the most remarkable creature on earth. If cut transversely or longitudinally into several parts, each will become a perfect animal. Tremblingly turned them inside out and they ate and enjoyed themselves as much as ever. He slit two longitudinally, placed the halves together, and united them into two animals. He divided two transversely and created one with two heads. He pushed one down the throat of another, a third down the throat of the second, and thus formed a creature with three heads.

An Italian Peasant.

The Poletti's little cottage stands in a field and is semidetached. Like many of their class in Italy, they have a great love for and pride in their home. The furniture is well polished, the tools and utensils arranged with an attempt at decoration, and all is clean and neat. It is a two roomed house. On the ground floor is the kitchen, where the boy's bed stands under the stair which leads to the upper room. Here are two large beds, one for the parents, the other for the two girls.

In the kitchen stand a walnut wood table and a sideboard of antique design, an bedroom of the mother's; a walnut chest holds the bed and table linen and another old chest the best clothes; the everyday clothes are kept in a chest up stairs. They try to add something every year to the house linen. Sometimes the mother and daughters beg the use of a little plot of ground, which they sow with flax, and the year following they spin and weave it themselves, borrowing a loom from a farmer. Their stock compares favorably with that of the better off English cottager, to my nothing of the quality of this homestead linen compared to that bought cheap at a country shop.—Brightly Review.

Mysteries of Sound.

Many of the manifestations of sound are still a complete mystery to science. One of the best architects in New Orleans remarked the other day that a building with good acoustic properties was always a lucky find, and that it was impossible to be absolutely certain in advance. Sometimes a trifling alteration will do the work—the dimensions of an arch are modified by an inch, a corner is made blunt, a slight obstruction removed, and, presto! a whisper becomes audible.

There are old seafaring men in this city who can tell strange stories of fog sirens and bell buoys heard now for an incredible distance and again not heard at all when right at hand. There would be nothing about the air or weather to account for such a variation, but the naked fact was indisputable, and the phenomenon is at the bottom of many an otherwise unaccountable wreck.

Near the center of the city is a clock that strikes the hours on a deep toned bell. Sometimes the note may be heard almost to the suburbs. On other days, or rather other nights, it is inaudible outside a radius of half a dozen blocks. Oddly enough, the bell seems clearest and its tone most penetrating in turbulent weather, irrespective of the direction of the wind.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Remarkable Lake.

The most remarkable body of water in the world lies in the vicinity of the Colorado river, in southern California. In this region of ugly volcanoes, desolate wastes and slimy swamps, the strangest phenomenon of all is what the naturalists call a 'lake of ink.' No other description fits as well.

The strange black fluid that forms the lake bears no resemblance to water. The pool of ink is situated about half a mile from a volcano. It is about an acre in area. The surface is coated with gray ashes from the volcanoes to the thickness of about six inches, thus concealing its real nature.

Experience has proved that the black fluid of the lake is not poisonous. It acts as a dye, and cotton goods soaked in it keep their color for months, even when exposed to the sun. They also acquire a stiffness similar to that produced by weak starch. The fluid has been analyzed, but its component parts have not been made known. As to the source of the supply of the lake, nothing definite has been ascertained. It is undoubtedly of volcanic origin, but nothing more definite is known.

This is a bad land that has never been traversed. Human beings have tried it, but they never return to tell of their experience or their discoveries.—Louisville Post.

A Serious Omission.

'Here's something queer,' said the man who is always looking for flaws. 'What's that?' asked the man who was reading the news over the other's shoulder. 'This account of the death of Captain Eddleby. I've read it through twice now and I can't find it said anywhere that the news of his death came to his friends with a shock.'—Cleveland Leader.

QUITE INFORMAL.

Lincoln's Reception of the Notification Committee.

In the 'Biography of Charles Carleton Coffin' is his own account of accompanying the committee to the home of Mr. Lincoln in Springfield, Ill., to notify him of his nomination for president. They reached Springfield early in the evening, and after supper at the hotel made their call on Lincoln. It was not to be a very formal interview. Lincoln stood in the parlor, dressed in a black frock coat. The announcement was made, and his reply seemed brief. He was evidently much constrained, but as soon as the last word had been spoken he turned to Mr. Kelley of Pennsylvania, the chairman of the committee, and said: 'Judge, you are a pretty tall man. How tall are you?'

'Six feet two.'

'I beat you! I am 6 feet 3 without my high heeled boots.'

'Pennsylvania bows to Illinois, where, we have been told, there were only little giants,' said Kelley.

This was an allusion to Douglas, who had been called the 'Little Giant.'

One by one the members of the committee were introduced to Lincoln, and when the handshaking was over he said:

'Gentlemen, Mrs. Lincoln will be pleased to see you in the adjoining room, where you will find some refreshments.'

There Mrs. Lincoln met them pleasantly, but the only visible sign of refreshments was a white earthen pitcher filled with ice water. This was possibly Mr. Lincoln's little joke, for it was afterward ascertained that his Republican neighbors had offered to furnish wines and liquors, which he refused to have in his house, and that his Democratic friends had sent round baskets of champagne, which were also declined.

CHIMNEYS KNOCKED OUT.

Machine Shops Can Be Run More Economically Without Them.

A few years ago the building of a machine shop without a chimney would have been looked upon as the act of an idiot. Now it may be the wisest thing a builder can do, for the large fan which is taking the place of the chimney costs a great deal less than the lofty stack, and does its work much better. Besides this there is a great saving in fuel.

In one plant where this experiment was tried there were three boilers, aggregating 350 horsepower, and directly above them was mounted a fan connected direct with a 5 by 4 double cylinder engine. The wheel of the fan was 54 inches in diameter, and as it could be run at any speed, it provided a draft quite independent of the fire. It was possible to use a much cheaper grade of coal and the saving thus effected was quite appreciable.

For instance, with the ordinary form of chimney the shop would use 1,624 tons of Cumberland coal, at $3.65, aggregating $5,929 a year. Using the blower, a mixture of Cumberland coal and yard screenings, half and half, would suffice. This, at $3.85 kg, would amount to $4,995, showing a difference of $934. The cost of operating the fan was placed at $183 per annum, so that the net gain was $761, a sum greater than the entire cost of the mechanical draft apparatus.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

With all of Stewart and Wallace's underground work for Tom Wren, Newlands was elected by three times as large a majority as any candidate on the Silver Party State Ticket, excepting Judge Belknap. That Stewart was backing Wren and putting up the wherewith to meet his campaign expenses, was as well known, as that the Southern Pacific railroad company was backing and putting up for Stewart. With all of the treachery and dirty work of Stewart and his Lieutenant, Mr. Newlands received a larger vote than he would have polled with the support instead of the opposition of the brace of traitors above mentioned. Mr. Newlands was fully posted as to the treachery going on against him, but with spirit of magnanimity, which few men would have displayed, or ought to have displayed, under the circumstances, Mr. Newlands held his peace, and in every speech he made earnestly advocated the election of the man who was endeavoring to defeat him by every means in his power, and even made special appeals for the success of his legislative ticket, as he deemed it his duty to do in accordance with the indorsement resolution adopted by the Silver party State convention. In our opinion, Mr. Newlands permitted an overwrought sentiment of partisan fidelity to influence his action, which he would in honor have been justifiable in reversing with such palpable treachery on the other side to arouse a spirit of retaliation.

If Mr. Newlands had as few scruples as his enemies, not a single Stewart legislator would have been elected in the State, and he would have had a walkover for the position for which he is now a candidate. All of the few Stewart men who were pulled through by trading candidates on the Silver Party State ticket and purchase of votes, were elected by the smallest majorities, which could easily have been overcome by the expenditure of a few dollars in each of the counties where the Stewart tickets scored their partial successes.

While such spirit of forbearance is creditable to Mr. Newlands, in a sentimental point of view, it is not creditable to him as a practical politician. When he found that he was a victim to the treachery of the man who was equally bound with him to sustain the action of his party convention, it was a false sentiment of honor which impelled him to submit to it, and to forbear from turning the tables upon the traitors, who were seeking to effect his political downfall. This he could easily have done and his action would have been approved by all honorable men, who believe in good faith in politics as in other matters and in political treachery meeting its just reward.

And yet now, when Stewart has not a corporal's guard of legitimate supporters in both houses, and is seeking to acquire the necessary 23 in joint convention from members pledged under all circumstances to vote against him, because Mr. Newlands exercises his right as a citizen and a member of the Silver party to place himself in opposition to the man repudiated by the people, he is denounced as a traitor, while the arch traitor and his henchmen are trying to read him out of the party which they have themselves betrayed.

Without a particle of evidence to support the charge, the Stewartites are accusing Mr. Newlands of working against the Stewart legislative ticket. If he had done so there wouldn't have been a Stewart legislator elected in the State. The real offense of Mr. Newlands was that he did not do it. He knew that he was being made a victim of Stewart's and Wallace's treachery and a just and honest spirit of resentment ought to have inspired him to retaliate, which he would have been perfectly justified in doing. A false sentiment of partisan fidelity, however, prevailed and Mr. Newlands did all in his power to assist the man whom he knew was kuffing him. That may be good christianity, but it isn't good politics. The JOURNAL confesses that it would like Mr. Newlands better if he had more hell-fire in him.

STEWART'S candidacy became a thorn of the past with the closing of the polls on November 8, 1898. He died a political death at that time and his demise was as decisive by his candidacy as his physical death would have been. His political ghost will be exorcised by the joint committee this month. The trouble with Stewart is, he doesn't know that he is dead, and probably won't until he is conveyed to his political sepulcher, which will be done with all the dishonor some time about the last of the present month.

HAVEN'T the people of the State got enough of that sickening stuff about the "typical Southerner" who is sojourning at Senator Stewart's wife's mansion at Carson? While we have no doubt that Colonel Chinn possesses all of the attributes of the Rebels, the Yankees, the Prentices and the Hamptons, we are under the impression that the great masses just at present are not particularly interested in "typical Southerners." Let us hear something about a typical Nevadan.

CIVILIZATION in this country has advanced so far that prize-fighters who want to "pull off" a match have no place to go except Carson City or New York.

DESTROYED A FLEET.

A WHALE'S REVENGE FOR THE HARPOONING OF HER CALF.

In Her Mad Fury She Succeeded in Killing Six Men and Injuring Fifty More and Splintering Fifty Fishing Boats.

A widely known and feared devilfish has its headquarters in the northern Pacific, mostly along the American coast, especially affecting the gulf of California. This huge creature is a mammal, one of the great whale family, really a roquard of medium size and moderate yield of oil. Only the elite of the Yankee whalersmen, dexterous and daring as are all the tribe, can hope to get "to windward" of the diabolically cunning giants whom they abuse with such fluent and frequent flow of picturesque profanity.

It is a peculiar characteristic of this animal that it seems ever on the alert, scarcely exposing for one moment its broad back above the sea surface when rising to spout and generally traveling, unlike all its congeners, not upon, but a few feet below, the water. For this reason, and in this fishery alone, the whalers arm themselves with iron shafted harpoons, in order to strike with greater force and certainty of direction a whale some distance beneath the surface. A standing order, too, among them is never by any chance to injure a calf while the mother lives, since such an act exposes all and sundry near the spot to imminent and violent death.

Neglect of this most necessary precaution, or more probably accident, once brought about a calamity that befell a fleet of 13 American whalers which had been engaged in the "bowhead" fishery among the ice floes of the Arctic Pacific. In order to waste no time they came south when winter set in, and by common consent rendezvoused in Margarita bay, Lower California, for a month or two's "devil fishing."

The whales were exceedingly abundant that season, and all the ships were soon busy with as much blubber as they could manage. The ease with which the whales were being obtained, however, led to considerable carelessness and forgetfulness of the fact that the whale never changes its habits. One bright morning, about three weeks after the opening of the season, the whole flotilla of 53 boats, four from each ship, had been lowered and were making their way as rapidly as possible to the outlying parts of the great bay, keeping a bright lookout for "fish."

Spreading out fanwise, they were getting more and more scattered, when about near the center of the fleet some one suddenly "struck" and got fast to a fish, but hardly had the intimation been given when something very like panic seized upon the crowd. In a moment or two the reason was apparent. From some cause, never definitely known, a harpooner had in striking a large cow whale transfixed her calf at her side with his harpoon, killing it immediately.

The mother, having quietly satisfied herself that her offspring was really dead, turned upon her aggressors like a veritable demon of destruction, and while carefully avoiding exposure of her body to attack simply spread devastation among the flotilla. Whenever she rose to the surface, it was but for a second, to emit an expiration like the hiss of a lifting safety valve and almost always to destroy a boat or complete the destruction of one already hopelessly damaged.

Every blow was dealt with an accuracy and appearance of premeditation that filled the superstitious Portuguese, who formed a good half of the crews, with dismay—the more so that many of them could only guess at the original cause of what was really going on. The speed of the monster was so great that her almost simultaneous appearances at points widely separated made her seem ubiquitous, and as she gave no chance whatever for a blow it certainly looked as if all the boats would be destroyed seriatim. Not content with dealing one tremendous blow at a boat and reducing it at once to a bundle of loose boards, she renewed her attentions again and again to the wreckage, as if determined that the destruction should be complete.

Utter demoralization had seized even the veterans, and escape was the only thought governing all action. But the distance to shore was great, and the persistence and vigor of the furious Leviathan, so far from diminishing, seemed to increase as the terrible work went on. At last two boats did succeed in reaching the beach at a point where it sloped very gradually. The crews had hardly leaped overboard to run their craft up high and dry when close behind them in the shallows foamed and rolled their relentless enemy, just too late to reach them.

Out of the large number of well equipped boats that left the ships that morning only these two escaped undamaged, and the loss of the season's work was irremediable. Over 50 men were badly injured, and six, one of whom was the unhappy origin of the whole trouble, were killed outright. The triumphant avenger of her slain offspring disappeared as silently as she had carried on her deadly warfare, as far as could be known unhurt, and with an accumulated board of experience that would if possible render her more of a "devil" to any unsuspecting whaler who should hereafter have the misfortune to meet with and attack her than she had proved herself to be already. Dejected and crippled, the fleet lost no time in getting away from the spot and fleeing north to San Francisco, there to refit for other and more profitable fishing grounds.—Cornhill Magazine.

An Objection.

"If you pass your college examinations, I'll pay all your debts."
"Why, uncle, do you want me to work for the benefit of my creditors?"
—Fliegende Blätter.

The surface of the sea is estimated at 150,000,000 square miles, taking the whole surface of the globe at 197,000,000, and its greatest depth supposedly equals the height of the highest mountain, or four miles.

The old Norman dialect, or a corruption of it, is still spoken in the Channel Islands.

How To Look Good.

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver is inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach is disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys are affected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health, and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alternative and tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. 50 cents per bottle.

An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dann's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opalotypes, small autotypes and lovely porcelain. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of this? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it?

The Palace Dry Goods and Carpet House has decided to continue the gigantic clearance sale of capes and jackets a second week, because the sale has been such a success, and there are some of those good values in these outer garments left. Ladies will do well to call at the Palace and see the good things they can get for a small sum of money. Look at the display in the windows.

If you have not seen the window of Block & Olaness, at the Washoe Lunch Counter, stop and see it. You can get roast duck, chicken and pig or any other thing that is good and stable for dinner to-day. WEATHER BULLETIN.

(Copyright, 1898, by W. T. Foster.)

ST. JOSEPH, MO., January 15.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from 18th to 17th.

The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 18th, cross west of Rockies country by the close of 19th, great central valleys 20th to 22nd eastern States 23rd.

Warm wave will cross west of Rockies country about 18th, great central valleys 20th, eastern States 22nd.

Cool wave will cross west of Rockies country about 21st, great central valleys, 23d eastern States 25th.

Temperature of the week ending 8 A. M. January 30th will average above normal in the southern, much above in the northern and below in the west of Rockies States.

Rainfall for the same week will be about normal in the southern, below in the northern and above in the west of Rockies States.

Winter weather came in early this year, the character of midwinter will be known by the time this bulletin is published. What are to be the weather conditions of February and March?

It is too long in advance to publish particulars but I will say prepare for a hard winter in the northern states after January has passed.

The causes which brought the severe storms during the last week of November will be active throughout the year 1899 and many severe storms, including a large number of tornadoes, may be expected.

No forecasts have ever equalled in accuracy those for December 1898 published in these bulletins more than a month in advance. The weather bureau has never made, cannot make, any such a success in its twenty-four hours in advance forecasts.

Marriages in Reno.

The records of the Recorder's office show that there was an average of twenty-two marriages per month during the year 1898. If the Legislature of California does not modify its marriage law during the present session, there is an opening for some enterprising man to form a real marriage bureau in Reno.

We suggest that the man who enters upon this field of action be on hand when the trains from the west arrive and after the manner of the hotel "runner" stand by and salute newly arrived couples with the cry: "Right this way to the free bus to the marriage bureau! Licence business speedily attended to, a Justice of the Peace and preacher always on hand! We tie the knot with all possible speed, charges reasonable. After the wedding we will convey you to any hotel in town free of charge; all done with great dispatch; no anxiety, no trouble. Right this way all couples who wish to be spoiled!"

At the rate of twenty-two marriages a month who can say that this is not a great business opportunity; one to be considered seriously.

Daniel Sully's "Uncle Rob."

At McKissick's Opera House to-morrow night, "Uncle Rob." Daniel Sully's new play, will bid for popular favor. That it will please the public Mr. Sully is confident, for so far he considers it the best play he has ever presented. As an artist, Mr. Sully is so well known, that we only need mention, he will positively appear, so we will speak strictly of the piece and company. There are two sweet, simple love stories running through the piece, and the part of Robt. Burke (played by Mr. Sully) is a grand, noble character, full of heart interest bringing a tear to the eye, and then a smile to cheer the heart. The plot of the piece lies in the sacrifice of Robt. Burke who gives up home and fortune in order that his old comrade and partner in business may not learn of the villainy of his son, young Sage. Many musical novelties will also be introduced. The cast is a strong one, among the most notable being Miss Grace Cahill, Miss Jennie Lissenden, Miss Daisy Chaplin, Miss Louise Sully, Mr. Jefferson Lloyd, Mr. George Davis, Mr. Geo. H. Rareside, Mr. Elmer Lessenden, Mr. Harry McFadden and others. A play of more than ordinary ability may be expected.

School Money Apportionments.

The first semi-annual apportionment of State school money, just announced fall about $1,000 short of 1897. The amounts received since 1894 are as follows:

First apportionment in Jan.	See apportionment in July
1895.....13,162 10	1895.....6,068 04
1896.....14,228 00	1896.....7,701 10

The Reno Wheelmen are seriously considering the proposition of putting on another minstrel performance in the near future. Should the club decide to do so, it will certainly equal if not exceed its previous entertainments. There will probably be a meeting held on Tuesday evening next for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements.

Harry Davis has just returned from his trip to San Francisco, and his general face may be seen at "The Model." He brings a large and elegant stock of new goods with him. Among the stock is a fine line of H. S. Crocker stationery, new gramophones and records. The fact that Harry intends to sell only the best goods is at once evident on looking through "The Model."

The funeral of the late James H. Machormich took place yesterday afternoon. At 2 o'clock the procession moved from the undertaking parlors of Cummings & Sockton to the Methodist church where services were held. Rev. G. H. Jones officiating. The remains were then conveyed to the Hillside cemetery, where all that was mortal of James H. Machormich was laid away by tender and sorrowing hands to his rest eternal. May the snows of winter rest lightly upon the mound that indicates the resting place. By the will of God a long and honest life has been brought to a close.

Nevada's Soldiers were Sent.

Private Ferret of the First Nevada Cavalry passed through Reno last night on his way to report for duty at San Francisco. Ferret was taken ill at Honolulu and released from duty on a furlough. He came to Nevada to re-engage and is now ready for active service. He tells an amusing incident concerning Lieutenant Gignoux who is well known in Reno. Gignoux was sorely troubled with sea sickness on the voyage from San Francisco to Honolulu. When three days out a private approached him, saluted, and said: "Lieutenant, they tell me you have thrown up a great deal on the voyage." "You bet I have," replied Gignoux, "and if I were back in Reno I would throw up my commission."

Effect of Lime on the System.

A medical scientist is authority for the statement that children and old people especially suffer from a lack of lime in the system. Persons who habitually drink soft water, while they may enjoy immunity from certain of the ills of life, expose themselves to others perhaps quite as much to be avoided. Hard water helps the teeth and the bones by furnishing lime, which is necessary to health, growth and development. Old persons who drink but little lose their teeth more quickly than those who take a reasonable amount of drinking water. Lime, or food products in which it abounds, should be a part of the regular supply furnished to the system. One of the most valuable vegetables for this purpose is the yellow turnip or rutabaga, which should be given to growing children at least once a week. Properly prepared, it is very reliable and its food value has never been appreciated.

She Thought She Did.

He—Do you love me well enough to become my wife?

She—I think I do, but I must have all the money I want, and I must always have my own way, and go when and where I want to, and come home when I please, and stay away when I please. Yes, I think I really do love you well enough to marry you.—Boston Transcript.

Talking to an Invalid.

A physician, in an article illustrating the evil custom of talking to an invalid about his pains, says that once he requested a mother to mark a stroke upon a paper each time that she asked a sick daughter how she was. The next day to her astonishment she made 109 strokes. A three months' visit away from home was prescribed.

Time Enough to Beller.

One day Billy, that's my brother, he and Sammy Dobby was playing by a mudhole, and Billy he said:

"Now, Sammy, let's play we was a barnyard. You be the pig and lie down and woller, and I'll be a bull and beller like everything."

So they got down on their hands and knees, and Sammy he got in the mud and woller, while Billy beller, like distant thunder. Bimeby Sammy he came out muddy—you never see such a muddy little feller—and he said, "Now you be the pig, and let me beller." But Billy said, "I ain't a very good pig fore dinner, and it'll be time 'nuff for you to beller when yer mother sees yer close."—Scrap Book.

Played it on the Judge.

Counsel for the plaintiff in a certain case made use during an argument of the word "broomham."

"Excuse my interrupting you, Mr.
Brief," said the judge, "but in the society in which I am accustomed to move no pronounce the word 'broom,' and so save a syllable."

During his summing up the judge had occasion to use the word "omnibus."

"Excuse me, m'lud," broke in counsel, "but in the society in which I am accustomed to move no pronounce that word 'bus,' and so save two syllables."
